THE DWELLING

Albreanda lies to the centre of the picturesque village of Whitchurch Canonorum. The property is believed to have been built in the 1960s and has been substantially extended. The original build was not of standard construction with a single skin only however subsequent works have added reconstituted stone layer increasing its thermal efficiency. This property however is all about its village position with the sea just a mile away as the crow flies and some of the best walking the county offers both in the Marshwood Vale and on the National Trust Golden Cap estate that runs between Bridport and Charmouth on coastal path.

ACCOMMODATION

The accommodation briefly consists of a sitting room to the front of the property with a bay window and a fireplace as it's focal point and a good kitchen/dining room to the rear and with the dining area to one end and a fully fitted kitchen to the other. And on the other side of the property there are two good bedrooms served by both the WC in the bathroom with two additional bedrooms on the first floor. The property has calor gas central heating and as UPVC double glazing.

OUTSIDE

The majority of the gardens lie on the west side of the property taking the sun for much of the day and are for the most part laid to lawn edge by mature herbaceous and shrub borders. Immediately to the front of the property there is a gravel garden all to one side of the house there is both a vegetable patch and a greenhouse. Vehicular access lies on the right hand side of the property and is owned by the cottage across the lane and gives access to a timber garage with parking in front. To the rear of the garden there is a useful timber and block built workshop that is equipped with light power. The gardens are enclosed a mixture of mature hedge and timber fencing.

SITUATION

The property is situated in the rural village of Whitchurch Canonorum, in the Marshwood Vale and just a few miles from the coast. The larger village of Charmouth is a short distance away, and has a number of good shops, public houses and restaurants to its centre and beaches. Charmouth lies midway between the former rope-making town of Bridport to the East and the Devon carpet making town of Axminster to the West. Walking, water sports and riding opportunities are plentiful in the area.

MATERIAL INFORMATION

Agents note – it should be noted that the property is not of standard construction and is known as an SECO build. Behind the plasterboard in the old part of the property that has not been renovated there are asbestos cement panels which have been tested by an asbestos assessor and the conclusion is that they are made of “very low risk material “. The type of asbestos found was called Chrysotile. It should also be noted that although the property will be found on a search to be in a high risk flood risk area the property has not flooded in the time of my clients family's occupation since the house was built in the 1960s.
